Why complete this form?

Establishing whether planning permission is required for a proposed development can be complex. Planning Legislation ordinarily allows homeowners to carry out certain development without planning permission (this is referred to as ‘permitted development’). However, there are lots of different criteria to check to establish whether permission is required or not and the Planning Service can undertake this check for you.

If you do not wish to use this service there are a variety of free sources of advice available to help establish whether planning permission is required. In particular, the Planning Portal is the national governments gateway to planning information and includes an interactive house that can be used to help establish whether planning permission is required (http://www.planningportal.gov.uk/)

Important information about the advice you will receive?

The advice you will receive is an informal officer view on the need for planning permission. It will be based on the information and sketches that you provide, and other information available to the officer. Please note the advice is an opinion only it is not a formal binding decision of the Local Planning Authority. Should the development not be completed as specified in this submission then the advice given on the need for planning permission may no longer be applicable.

A formal binding decision on the need for permission can be obtained by applying for a ‘Lawful Development Certificate’ for a proposed use. These require accurate existing and proposed elevations and floor plans and other detailed information. Further information on how to submit an application for a Certificate of Lawful Development is available at www.cravendc.gov.uk.

Declaration

I have read and understood the above information about the advice that I will receive. I also understand that after submitting my enquiry and fee, should Planning Services require further information or clarification from me about a proposal that it is my responsibility to supply it and no refund will be given if I fail to supply the information requested.

Signed: ___________________________ Date: ___________________________
5. Sketch of the proposed development.

Checklist for Sketch of the proposed development.

The sketch that you draw will be used to establish whether planning permission is required, and it must include the following information:

- All dimensions specified in metric.
- Sketch floor plan that gives external dimensions of the original house, any existing extensions, and clearly indicates the position and size of the proposed development.
- Sketch block plan that gives external dimensions of the house and garden, any outbuildings within it, and the distances of the proposed development from the boundary. The plan should also indicate any roads or public rights of way that adjoin the property and indicate which is the front of the house.
- Sketch of all elevations (e.g. the available views from the sides, rear or front) of the proposed development. The elevations need to state the height of the proposed development and where attached to an existing house indicate the height in relation to the house.
- Any other alterations to the existing dwelling are indicated on the sketch plans or described.
